STAY SAFE AND HEALTHY!

Homestead News

by Korinn Braden

Hello from the Homestead!

For the year that never seemed to end, we're fast approaching 2021. Apologies for the time in between the newsletters, as time got away from me. The ever-popular Zoom meetings are more frequent than in-person meetings and has proven to be a great way to keep up with other museums in Brevard, as well as board members, and volunteers. I think the word of 2020 should be 'pivot.' We've all been required to change the status quo and pivot to adapt. Hopefully with success!

We've had much success with our wonderful volunteers during the year. In September, we began to recruit volunteers to scan and transcribe the WW II letters of Ed Field from 1942-1945. We were able to assign letters for transcription via Google Drive, truly making it a virtual volunteer project.

This time of year is wedding season at Field Manor. Our commitment to Covid-19 requirements is still in place, ensuring our guests safety and enjoyment. We are truly lucky to have a 40'x60' pavilion on the lovely Indian River, with its breezes and beautiful sunlight on the water.

Field Manor is pleased to announce our participation in Museum of Brevard's Inaugural Christmas Tour of Historic Homes. Along with five other Brevard historic homes, a $35 package tour will gain you entry into each of the participating homes, with a Christmas ornament given upon completion of the tour. We hope to have this become a tradition with your support.

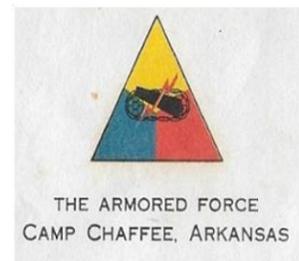

Speaking of support, the generosity of you, Friends of Field Manor, means the world to us, both as a source of pride as well as a source of financial support. Please consider renewing your membership to Field Manor. You can send in a check, do it over the phone, or for convenience, click this link: https://www.paypal.com/donate?token=s6xd4bTdDeHbFJYKIOvp1ktG7oloMgkwjDGQWgUiGDTeFng1bjfmBbRbje6a05iEQMvBo\_img28\_28mF

From myself, Darren, Alexis, and Nemon, as well as our terrific board members, we wish you and your family and friends a safe, healthy and Happy Christmas and New Year! Bye, 2020!

From an Island in the Indian River to a Continent in Crisis: Sgt. Ed Field and the 93rd Armored Field Artillery

In September 2020 Field Manor called for volunteers to scan and transcribe the letters J. Edward Field, Jr. sent home to Indianola between 1942-1946. And we were thankful to have five stalwarts embark on this journey. The letters were scanned, named, and are in the process of being transcribed.

1942, the boot camp year, is completed, and we're almost finished with 1943. Although we have read through them for content, we're consciously trying not to read them, if that makes much sense. Most of us are excited to read them in their entirety and in chronological order.

Okay, maybe we haven't read read them, but we were curious about a re-occurring name, Gladys. Upon investigation, her identity has been revealed. We hope to tell more of this story in up-coming months.

Ed's parents, Uncle John Miot, and his sister Betty were diligent writers and it meant a lot to Ed to keep up with his Indianola community. He received the Cocoa paper and Life magazine to supplement the news. Neighbors and relatives sent candy and potted stew, as well as clothing and watches.

Although Ed doesn't dwell on battles, skirmishes, and being on the move, he is honest about what he sees and experiences.

Ed Field somewhere in Europe 1944

Through the Cocoa paper and correspondences he was able to meet up with fellow Brevard locals and chew the fat. He missed hunting duck, went deep sea fishing off Italy, ate a lot of Red Cross doughnuts, bought all the women in his life perfume from France, and never could find a good wrist-watch.

We look forward to learning more about his time serving the U.S.A. during WW II.

Our group of volunteers meet Tuesdays and Thursdays, between 1:30-4:00 PM. If you're interested being a virtual detective, we would be happy to send you a month to transcribe from home. Contact: events@fieldmanor.org

A special thanks to Kate P., Mark B., Carol G., Andy H., Dorothy C., and Amy C. for their honest work, consistency, and friendship.

Thanks to Dean Schaaf and the Veteran's Memorial Center for the donation of shirt, tie, and shoes.
